

Media Questions - Dr. Edward Rose

In the Great Commission, Jesus calls His followers to make disciples. What is that? How does someone engage in making disciples?

Why are so many reluctant to share their faith with others? Can't they just share their faith by the way they live?

Isn't making disciples just for the "paid professionals" like the pastor and other church leaders, or is it a calling for everyone who follows Christ?

You have written a book, Unrelenting Pursuit: Becoming God's Instrument in Making Disciples. How do you outline what we can and should be doing to make disciples?

What is the definition of "fruit" in the Bible, and how does it relate to the calling of someone who follows Christ.

You have a ministry called Good Soil Good Fruit. Tell us what this means and how people can develop good soil AND how that is important in good fruit.

On the topic of Forgiveness...What is the importance of forgiveness in the turmoil in our world, and how is it different from forbearance? Are Christ-followers called to "conditional" or "unconditional" forgiveness? What is the difference?

Why is it necessary for someone who accepts Christ to conform to the expectations and guidelines outlined in the Bible? If someone is forgiven by God, can't they continue to live their life the way they want to?

Why do so many people in churches today act no differently than people that don't go to church at all?

Why should someone form a relationship with Jesus Christ? How does Jesus transform our lives?

Would you give us your website and how to order your book?
